SALE PRICES

Prices indicated in the online order form are prices that have been established for sale to individual clients.

Clients with a liquor permit from the Régie des alcools, des courses et des jeux must mention this on the purchase order. They must also provide the name of their establishment as well as the name of the contact person, and all other requested information. Payment of the order and determination of the sale prices will follow usual procedures. However, the final sales price of products for clients with liquor permits will be the price listed in the catalogue plus the taxes normally charged to permit holders, which will be collected by the SAQ upon delivery of the products

The name indicated on the order form must be the same as the name of the cardholder whose card is being used to make the purchase. In the event that the name on the order form is different from the name of the cardholder, the SAQ reserves the right to cancel the order at its discretion without prior notice.

Orders will be delivered by the end of July 2020. Prior to this, you'll receive a shipping confirmation by email that is important to keep.

All orders not claimed at the client's chosen SAQ outlet within 30 days after they are available for pickup can be cancelled without further notice, and a reimbursement cheque for the total amount of the purchase will be expedited to the last mailing address listed for the client in the SAQ's files.

Any persons unable to claim their products once they are available for pickup must contact the SAQ Inspire Signature.

TRANSACTION SECURITY

To ensure transaction security, encoding is used to transmit digital data via computer network or to ensure confidentiality of important files stored on your computer. The clearly worded text is turned into an unintelligible text using complex algorithms and cryptograms known as keys. A reverse operation is applied for decoding.

The SAQ Inspire Signature website uses the asymmetrical encoding, which requires a key for encoding and another for decoding. Decoding requires knowledge of both keys; one cannot be deduced from knowing the other. To send an encoded message, the sender uses the encoding key; the recipient can only decode the message by using a decoding key. No key changes hand when this method is used. This method ensures the secured transmission of your credit card number over the Internet to our payment system.

When you use the payment form, the information about your credit card is transmitted via the Internet using the SSL (Secure Socket Layer) protocol. This protocol enables secured transmission of information to our payment system.
